Plasco decision punted over to next council

Dec. 2014 deadline. Company that wants to turn garbage into energy needs to get its act together: Environment committee

STEVE COLLINS
ottawa@metronews.ca

Plasco, which plans to burn Ottawa's garbage to produce electricity, got more time from the environment committee to show that it has the necessary financial backing.

But there's a catch: If the company fails to meet the new deadline recommended to council — December 2014 — the city could start looking at other technologies.

"I see this as the 'Patience is Running Out' motion," committee chair Maria McRae said on Thursday. "We really want to support Plasco, we really want to live up to our contractual obligations, but if, at the end of an extension period, we don't see progress, then (this motion) directs staff to go out and find out what else is out there."

Council granted one extension in February when Plasco admitted it would not be able to secure financing by the end of March. That extension expires at the end of this month.

"The expectation that we could get all the elements of the debt in place between March and August was not realistic with the benefit of hindsight," Plasco CEO Rod Bryden said.

"It has been excruciatingly slow and costly," he added. "In development of new technology it always costs more and takes longer, so everyone thinks they've budgeted for that.... Well, it cost more and took longer than that, too, and we're now $350 million into creating what is the best technology in the world — we have no doubt that it is."

The extension won't change Plasco's obligation to have its plant operational by March 2016.

Fatal accident

Crash claims the life of man in his 20s

A man in his 20s is dead after a fatal car crash on Prince of Wales Drive Thursday afternoon.

Paramedics responded to reports of the crash in the 5700 block of Prince of Wales Drive at 2:24 p.m. According to paramedics, the man sped off the road and crashed into a trailer at a nearby RV dealership. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Prince of Wales was shut down between Carsonbry Road West and William McEwan Drive while police investigated the incident into the evening Thursday.

Angie Lavictoire, an employee at Giant RV, said she didn't see the crash but went outside after seeing police arrive at the scene.

"All I know is he was going too fast and crashed into a couple RVs down the road," said Lavictoire.

Found guilty

Man convicted of human trafficking

A 23-year-old Montreal man was convicted on human trafficking charges in Ottawa Thursday.

Jamie Byron was found guilty of abducting a 17-year-old Windsor girl in 2011, forcing her to perform sexual acts with more than 100 men over a two-month period.

It's the first conviction under human trafficking laws in Ottawa since they were added to the Criminal Code in 2005.

Blair station sex-assault suspect appears in court

When police arrested a 19-year-old Ottawa man Wednesday and accused him with a recent sexual assault at the Blair Transit Station, he was already out on bail for robbery charges.

In a brief court appearance by videolink Thursday, Hanten Hersi was charged with sexual assault, invitation to sexual touching, sexual interference, forcible confinement, intimidation, and breach of recognizance.

Hersi was remanded into custody and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 29.

Police say Hersi and three other men approached a girl who was sitting at the Blair Road transit station on Aug. 11 at 5 a.m. and offered her cash for sex. When she refused, the men allegedly led her to a secluded area in the 1600 block of James Naismith Drive, robbed her, and sexually assaulted her.

A nearby security guard heard screams and immediately called police.

At the time of his arrest, he was facing outstanding charges in relation to what police described as two alleged swarmings — one at the University of Ottawa and the other at the Sandy Hill Community Centre — on Sept. 11 and 12 of 2012.

In that instance he was charged with 11 offences, including robbery, uttering death threats, and using an imitation firearm while committing a robbery.

Youth mental-health emergencies jump at CHEO

Overwhelmed. The hospital struggles as mental-health emergencies jump 63 per cent from '09-'10

The Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario has reported a marked increase in the number of mental-health emergencies handled by the hospital since 2012. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Mental-health emergency-room visits among children and youth have jumped 63 per cent since 2009 to 2010 at the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario and the Royal Ottawa hospital.

According to a report released Thursday, 2,900 children and youth have come to CHEO with mental-health emergencies since 2012. The hospital said the numbers reflect new strides in mental-health awareness, but also underlines the lack of a timely health-care strategy for children.

The numbers don't surprise Alex Munter, president and CEO of CHEO. Munter said the figures reflect a positive change against mental-health stigma, a barrier that stopped people from seeking much needed help in the past.

While Munter pointed out that silver lining, the hospital's findings still present a deeper issue — with the number of youth seeking treatment, CHEO and the Royal Ottawa are struggling to keep up. Outpatients looking for care can expect to wait eight to 10 months for treatment at CHEO and up to 14 months at the Royal Ottawa.

"The reality is we need to continue to invest in schools, in communities and in hospitals to make sure that services are available so that situations don't spiral into crisis," Munter said on Thursday.

He said that not enough money is being spent on mental-health care throughout Canada, adding that the National Strategy on Mental Health pegs their slice of the health-care budget at seven per cent, where it should be closer to nine per cent.

"We have reinvested in mental health," said Munter. "We have moved resources towards mental health in our own budget as the needs have grown, but it continues to be an area where there will need to be further investment."

'A third option'

Ottawa's top cop in favour of tickets for pot possession

Tickets for pot smokers caught with less than 30 grams of marijuana are a better option than looking the other way or filing mountains of paperwork for the court system, said Ottawa's chief of police Thursday.

"It's a burden on the court system for small amounts," said OPS chief Charles Bordeleau after the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police voted Tuesday to press the government to give them a third option when policing pot.

When an officer catches someone with two joints and chooses to press charges, Bordeleau said, they must fill out reams of paperwork and follow the case through court. Charges for small amounts aren't worth the return for clogging the court system, he added.

"Our time is precious. We have demands for services. It provides the officer to have a third option," Bordeleau said of ticketing. "It produces efficiencies and provides consequences."

Officers may be reticent to press charges when they catch someone with small amounts, yet that doesn't make the drug any less illegal, Bordeleau said. "It is against he law. It is a criminal offence to be in possession of marijuana," he added, noting that the amount set for fines will be a separate discussion.

Poker face: Watson not showing his hand

The dealing's not done yet. Mayor waits to see Premier Wynne's cards before saying whether he'll hold or fold on casinos proposal

In the face of opposition to expanded gambling from city health officials and some councillors, Mayor Jim Watson is holding his cards close and waiting to hear from the provincial government on a proposal to allow two new casinos instead of one.

"Until we get word from the province, which we haven't had, it's hard to offer an informed comment because we don't know what the end motion is going to be," he said Thursday. "So that will determine how people will vote, obviously, and I think we've been given a commitment by the province that we'll have something before Monday's meeting, and I look forward to receiving that."

The Ottawa Board of Health, which includes five city councillors, voted 8-1 this past Monday against increasing access to gambling here, citing the risks to the area's estimated 13,000 problem gamblers. They also voted to ask for more provincial funding to help the addicted.

City council voted unanimously last fall to participate in the OLG's process for a new casino.

"We started this process in March 2011, so it's not as if we've been rushing it," Watson said. "It's been over two years."

The mayor, who's spoken to Premier Kathleen Wynne and Finance Minister Charles Souza about the financial viability of having two OLG facilities in Ottawa, did not directly address the health board's concerns.

"I'll give more thoughtful comments once I see where the province is and I'll have lots to say about it at FECDO (on Monday) and then again at council (on Wednesday)," he said.

Calypso lawyer calls charges 'unnecessary'

Legal counsel for Calypso Water Park appeared in a provincial offences court for the first time Thursday to face safety-related charges laid by the Technical Standards and Safety Authority (TSSA).

On July 16, the TSSA laid 20 charges against the popular amusement park, located approximately 35 kilometres east of downtown Ottawa. The charges relate to incidents — some of which resulted in serious injuries — on the Pirate's Aquaplay, Steamer and Bobsleigh waterslides in 2011 and 2012.

Wilson Lee, a TSSA spokesperson, said some of the more serious charges to come out of its year-long investigation include failing to staff rides with a sufficient number of operators and attendants, putting rides that had been involved in a serious incident back into operation without TSSA's approval, and failing to take rides that had been involved in a serious incident out of service.

Lawyer Eric Granger appeared on behalf of Calypso's lawyer, Lawrence Greenspon.

"We've received some disclosure in the courtroom today. It's a first appearance, so we'll have to review that," said Granger.

The matter will return to court on Oct. 3.

The water park has been served with multiple civil lawsuits in the past several months, with the most recent one being filed July 19 — three days after the TSSA laid its charges. Not all of the lawsuits relate to the waterslides implicated in the safety watchdog's investigation.

"They're responding to those lawsuits," said Greenspon in a telephone interview Thursday.

The Ottawa-based lawyer vehemently opposed the laying of the charges, which he has previously described as "an abuse of power." He said he still stands by that statement.

"We'll be defending these charges strongly and to the fullest of our ability," said Greenspon. "They are matters that took place in 2011 and 2012. They have all been addressed. TSSA knows that and the announcement of these charges in the middle of the 2013 season when Calypso has been given a clean bill of health for this year was unnecessary and damaging."

'I am Chelsea Manning'. WikiLeaks source wants to live life as a woman

Bradley Manning plans to live as a woman named Chelsea and wants to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible, the U.S. soldier said Thursday, a day after being sentenced to 35 years in prison for the biggest leak of classified material in U.S. history.

Manning announced the decision in a written statement provided to NBC, asking supporters to refer to him by his new name and the feminine pronoun. The statement was signed "Chelsea E. Manning."

"As I transition into this next phase of my life, I want everyone to know the real me. I am Chelsea Manning. I am a female. Given the way that I feel, and have felt since childhood, I want to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible," the statement read. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rob Ford 'can't wait' to arm-wrestle the Hulkster

A little over the top?
Controversy-plagued Toronto mayor to take on his 'hero' Hulk Hogan in friendly match at city's Fan Expo

Toronto's mayor often takes on the media, but on the morning of Friday, Aug. 23, he'll face an even more intimidating opponent — his "hero," Hulk Hogan.

Rob Ford says he "can't wait" to arm-wrestle Hogan in a friendly event.

The legendary shirt-ripping wrestler will be in Toronto for Fan Expo, where he is set to hold an "uncensored" question-and-answer session on Friday evening.

But first, the 14-time wrestling champion will arm-wrestle Toronto's mayor, Ford's spokesman announced on Twitter.

Ford was asked about the event while at the Ontario legislature for the swearing-in ceremony of Doug Holyday, the former deputy mayor of Toronto who was recently elected as a provincial Progressive Conservative. Specifically, Ford was asked if he had seen a scene in the movie Rocky III, in which Hogan fights Rocky.

Alberta woman describes surviving 12 days lost in woods

JEREMY NOLAIS
Metro in Calgary

Her jaw was broken, her clothes were drenched and she was face-to-face with a bear. It was the night of July 14, the first of 12 the woman (whose name Metro is withholding because police allege she is the victim of a sexual assault), would spend lost in the bush.

According to RCMP, the woman had been sexually assaulted hours prior by a friend after the truck they were travelling in became stuck on the reserve's north end. It's alleged he punched her in the face, breaking her jaw, but she managed to escape.

Speaking for the first time since the incident on Thursday, the woman said she became immediately disoriented after she was hurt. Then the rain started coming down.

"I found a den," she said. "I went inside and then a bear came. She smelled me up ... I kept my eyes locked (on her), I didn't even want to blink."

The woman claims the bear then walked away but she continued to hear it nearby. By morning, it was gone.

But the ordeal was far from over. "I just kept telling myself, 'You're not going to die,'" she said. She made sure to keep her clothes dry but also hopped into the river from time to time to ride the current, a faster method of moving than by foot.

Finally, on July 26, the woman was found. She was rushed to hospital and spent weeks recovering. Even now, her jaw is not healing properly.

Still, she's just happy to be alive.

"I'll never forget the bear," she said, before adding, "I have got a second chance at life and am so grateful for that."

Justin Trudeau: Yes, he inhaled

And he's not apologizing. Liberal leader says marijuana prohibition policy costs law enforcement $500M a year

Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau answers questions from the media in Quebec City on Thursday. FRANCIS VACHON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Justin Trudeau says, yes, he's inhaled a few times and, yes, he was already a member of Parliament the last time he did and, no, he has no regrets about it.

The Liberal leader laid out his past marijuana use in a lengthy interview and in an exchange with reporters Thursday in which he made no apologies.

He said he's smoked pot five or six times in his life — including three years ago during a backyard get-together — and never really liked it much.

Now that he's come clean about using pot, he said, he'd like to move on and talk about the hundreds of thousands of people who have a criminal record for it.

Trudeau sought to shift the focus onto his policy of legalizing marijuana when asked by reporters about his drug use and whether it had been a mistake.

"No, it wasn't a mistake," Trudeau told journalists in Quebec City.

"I do not consume cannabis. I am not a big consumer at all. I tried it.... I've never tried other types of hard drugs. I am not a consumer of marijuana but, yes, I've already tried it. I used it — maybe five or six times in my life."

He said he believes public opinion has moved on and he's confident that Canadians will judge him less harshly than his political opponents.

What matters now, Trudeau said, is ending a marijuana-prohibition policy that he says costs law enforcement $500 million a year and has left 475,000 people with criminal records since the Conservatives took office in 2006.

He has said that issue touched his own family.

Trudeau originally made the marijuana admission in a candid interview with the Huffington Post, in which he also revealed that his youngest brother, Michel, was charged with marijuana possession shortly before his 1998 death in an avalanche.

THE MAN WHO HACKED ZUCKERBERG

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News in London

When a Palestinian programmer named Khalil Shreateh hacked into Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg's personal profile on the social network, the message he posted was respectful. "Dear Mark Zuckerberg," it began, "First sorry for breaking your privacy...."

The 30-year-old from Hebron had discovered a glitch that allowed him to post on any wall on the network. Facebook usually provides $500 US rewards for identifying such a weakness, but did not pay out in Shreateh's case, saying that he had violated protocol.

In stepped the ethical hacker community, and over $12,000 US has been crowdsourced to reward the Palestinian, who was in a good mood when we spoke.

You could have written anything. Were you tempted to make the message spectacular?
No, because it was a serious vulnerability, but I was forced to write after Facebook ignored my first and second reports. I was frustrated.

Were you angry with Zuckerberg?
I admire Mark, and anyone who starts a project like that. Mark built Facebook in college, it did well, he got famous and everyone would want to be like him. I have a lot of respect.

Does this inspire you to hack more famous people and companies?
I will keep watching for new vulnerabilities and report them, as I have done many times before. I will not break anyone's privacy and hope that every hacker uses what they find the right way and not for the black market.

Is this type of hacking very popular where you're from? Will you inspire more of it?
I can't answer that because intelligence people will come after me (laughs).... I hope it will inspire not only in Palestine as everybody needs these skills.

How have your friends and family reacted?
I want to say thanks to the hacker community for their donations, I really appreciate it. My family was worried I would be in jail and never have another job, but I thought I was helping people.

What are you planning to do with the money?
You cannot keep money in Palestine — I am very popular now. My family want me to get married, but I don't.

Job vacancies drop in Q2

The Canadian Federation of Independent Business says the number of job vacancies dropped slightly during the second quarter, an indication of a weaker labour market. The group representing small and medium-sized businesses says there were 289,800 unfilled jobs in the private sector during the April-July period, a drop of about 5,000 from the previous quarter. BORN IN CALGARY, ATLANTA ...

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Some weeks you just have to shake your head.

This is one of those weeks.

1 Sarin insanity. France's foreign minister suspects that the Syrian regime has used sarin nerve gas on its own people at least once, and likely multiple times as the civil war has intensified. It's hard to even think about, never mind look at the heartbreaking pictures of little kids reportedly gassed to death. But look we must.

2 We were bored. Then there's the story out of Duncan, Okla., about three teenagers who allegedly decided to drive by someone and shoot him dead, just for fun. The unlucky random "target" was Chris Lane, a 22-year-old Australian who was out for a jog. Guns don't kill people; they just help the people who do kill people.

3 What a mother. Meanwhile, back in Canada, the grandmother of autistic teen Max Begley got an anonymous letter from a person who signed it "One pissed off mother" complaining about the noises Max makes and demanding that they move out of the neighbourhood or "euthanize him." Police refuse to consider the letter a hate crime, but a love note it ain't. There has been a gratifying outpouring of support for Max since the letter surfaced, but "pissed off mother" has so far eluded justice. She'll have to live with herself, and that can't be fun.

4 The prince of pot. In the same week we learned he'll be a father for the third time, Justin Trudeau, the heir apparent to the national throne, also said he last smoked pot three years ago. There was a time when that admission would have sent any politician's ambitions down in flames (or is that up in smoke?), but it only seems to increase the number of cool colours in his pretty aura.

5 I am NOT a Canadian. Ted Cruz, Texas Republican senator and the tea party's Great Partially Hispanic Hope for President, has a birther problem. He was born in Calgary, which despite some reports, is not in the United States, and holds dual U.S.-Canadian citizenship. Obviously reluctant to invite comparisons to other Canadian politicians such as Justin Trudeau, Cruz has quickly renounced his Canadian citizenship. But if you're born in Calgary, you're one of us, eh?

6 Goodbye, Dickens of Detroit. Elmore Leonard, who apparently could only write bestsellers, including Get Shorty, which was made into a great movie starring Shorty, er, John Travolta, has died at 87. If I had a dog, I'd name it Elmore, even if it was a girl dog. His bark had plenty of bite.

A castle fit for a hedgehog

ALEXANDER ZEMLIANICHENKO JR./THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rare albinos named after Prince George

Three rare albino hedgehog babies, born on the same day as Britain's new prince, have moved into a miniature castle at a Moscow petting zoo.

George, Alexander and Louis are named after the Prince of Cambridge, who has those three names.

On Thursday, when the hedgehogs turned one month old, they were shown into their new home at the All-Russia Exhibition Centre.

It's a wooden castle with carefully carved windows, dark velvet curtains and a plush bed. A red carpet was rolled out to welcome the hedgehog family into the new home.

Zoo spokeswoman Yevgeniya Polonskaya said she hopes the Prince of Cambridge himself would one day visit the hedgehogs, and said they "have a couple of invitations set aside for him."

Synopsis

Nothing ruins a family reunion like an invasion of masked killers. On the occasion of their parents' 35th wedding anniversary, the Davidson kids and assorted significant others gather at a remote Tudor mansion — is there any other type in these kinds of movies? — to enjoy dinner and one another, but instead end up in a fight for their lives. Only one of the guests, Erin (Sharni Vinson), has the know-how to protect herself. But will it be enough?

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Home-invasion horror. Lack of redeeming social values aside, this disturbing movie will have you peeking through your fingers

Richard: Mark, I don't know what it says about me, but I really liked You're Next. It's disturbing, violent and without any redeeming social value, but I enjoyed sitting in the theatre with my hands over my eyes, afraid of what I might see next. I'm not usually a fan of head trauma, but from what I saw as I peeked through my fingers, it worked well. You?

Mark: Richard, I found it one of the best movies of its type ever. Home invasion films are my kind of scary because it could — and does — happen. But I did find some redeeming social value in it. I thought it turned out to be a sly satire on family dynamics and materialism. Without revealing too many plot twists — and I loved them all — this movie starts as one thing and becomes something a little deeper. And, yes, I don't like to admit it, but I was scared through and through.

RC: It's hard to discuss without giving away a major plot twist, but I will say there is a Manson Family aspect to the story that really creeped me out. That and the anxiety-inducing John Carpenter style score throbbing in the background. It's all effective but it is the idea behind the movie that is truly disturbing.

MB: Let's not leave out the creepy animal masks! And I learned a lot from the movie, like how much can be accomplished with a two-by-four and a simple set of nails. In fact, I just got back from the hardware store. I'm ready!

RC: It is a lesson in survivalism to be sure, but keep in mind how it works out for everyone. I think I'll stick to calling 911. Lessons aside, I did like that while there are a number of hysterical characters here — who wouldn't be upset when your friends and family are being randomly murdered? — the hero, if you can use that word to describe someone who kills a person with a blender, is a woman. So often in these movies women are the scream queens while the men do the heavy lifting. Here, the only person with any self-preservation instincts is female.

MB: I think a blender is a perfect murder weapon for a woman — very Martha Stewart, in fact. Yes, this movie does have a strong woman at its centre, and it's set up nicely in the beginning, with the family sneering at her for her survivalist training.

Wong Kar Wai takes on the master

China's past gets intense makeover.
Chinese director gives an action movie spin to the history of modern kung fu with The Grandmaster

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Chinese filmmaker Wong Kar Wai takes a fantastical look at the history of his nation through the lens of kung fu with The Grandmaster, about Yip Man (Tony Leung), the father of modern kung fu who eventually taught Bruce Lee. But first, according to the film, he had to wrestle with China's changing political climate and go through a lot of gorgeously staged fights.

This film is "inspired by a true story." How much historical accuracy did you go for?
It's quite accurate. The only thing I invented was the character of Gong Er (played by Zhang Ziyi). This is a fictional figure, it's not a real person. But in fact this character is based on several remarkable women at that time. When China was going through the changes from the monarchy to the republic, there were a lot of great men, and at the same time there were also remarkable women coming from all walks of life. Before then women were taking a much more minor role. They had to be a good daughter, good wife, good mother, and at that point you see women trying to have their own rights.

The film examines how kung fu used to be incredibly exclusionary — solely an upper class pursuit.
In the traditional sense, martial arts were not for poor people. To practise martial arts you needed to be extremely wealthy because you couldn't do anything else. You had to practise — like, they had specific hours, like three o'clock in the morning and then three o'clock in the afternoon. Not too hot, not too cold. And then there are so many formalities. People visit you, you have to have a big party. When they leave, you have to send them with gifts. All these expenses, it's a big thing.

What does the Chinese film industry make of Hollywood films like Iron Man 3 participating more with the country's filmmaking world and audience? A welcome growth or a threat?
I always find it very silly to say, "As we are invaded by Hollywood" because we've been in this business for a long time. The only thing that's important is to keep the audience coming back to the cinema.

What do you make of the rising importance of the global audience for Hollywood?
Now we see very clearly that the film industry cannot rely on a single market. Even for a Hollywood film, they cannot live on the domestic market alone. They need the international markets. So that's why there's more and more focus on the Chinese market, because it's growing so fast. It becomes a major market for here, for everywhere.

Comedy

The World's End

Director. Edgar Wright

Stars. Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Martin Freeman

A teenage pub crawl with four mates was the highlight of Gary King's (Simon Pegg) life. Twenty years later an attempt to relive that past glory becomes less about nostalgia and more about survival when the locals are revealed to be robots. Entertaining and inventive, The World's End isn't as laugh-out-loud funny as the first two parts of director Edgar Wright's trilogy, Shaun of the Dead and Hot Fuzz, but its thematic core — the difficulty of growing up — makes it the most mature of his films.
RICHARD CROUSE

Drama

Blue Jasmine

Director. Woody Allen

Stars. Cate Blanchett, Alec Baldwin

Woody Allen's latest film centres on the single most annoying character of any recent film. Jasmine (Cate Blanchett) is the widow of a Bernie Madoff type (Alec Baldwin) who is now out of money and options. Leaving NYC behind for a free place to stay with her sister (Sally Hawkins) in San Francisco, her self-centered, haughty attitude combined with her toxic past make it near impossible to build a future. Less a comedy in Allen's traditional vein, this is a character study brilliantly performed. The movie meanders somewhat, but expect an Oscar nomination for Blanchett. RICHARD CROUSE

Comedy

In a World

Director. Lake Bell

Stars. Lake Bell, Rob Corddry

In a world where men rule the voice-over, Carol Solomon is determined to become a movie trailer star. Unfortunately, her dad is the reigning king of voice-overs and doesn't believe a woman could succeed him. Writer/director/star Lake Bell is magnetic in this smart, sincere comedy. Her feature film debut is chock full of characters that, though sometimes superfluous to the storyline, immediately capture your interest and affection.
REGAN REID

Documentary

Dirty Wars

Director. Rick Rowley

Stars. Jeremy Scahill

While covering the war in Afghanistan, investigative journalist Jeremy Scahill learned of a secret U.S. night raid that left several dead, including two pregnant Afghan women. Investigating the raid leads Scahill to other accounts of targeted killings and soon he is down the rabbit hole uncovering a covert American war that is quickly spinning out of control.

Drama

The Spectacular Now

Director. James Ponsoldt

Stars. Miles Teller, Shailene Woodley

The Spectacular Now may be this generation's The Breakfast Club. Its by no means as funny (nor does it intend to be) but similar themes (and even the tidy use of personal essay as epilogue) are definitely present. In the film, a charming teen reluctantly falls for his rebound girlfriend even as he battles burgeoning alcoholism and a fuzzy future. Deftly directed by James Ponsoldt (Smashed), few films deal with teenage drama with such skilled tenderness.

In James Franco news, James Franco has done something very James Franco-y because, you know, he's James Franco.

Hollywood's hardest working Renaissance Man and jack of every single freaking trade you can imagine (no, seriously, just think of something obscure and maybe a little bit pretentious — betcha James Franco has done it) has announced that he will soon have his own reality show. The show, according to Variety, will air sometime in November and will be called James Franco Presents. What will James Franco be presenting, you ask? That's a stupid question.

He'll be presenting James Franco, in all his Franco-ness, as he explores his one billion different artistic pursuits. #James-Franco.

Hendricks to play a stripper

Breaking news: Christina Hendricks will play a stripper in the film adaptation of you don't even care, do you? The supernaturally beautiful Mad Men star will appear in the upcoming film Dark Places, a mystery novel by Gillian Flynn, author of last summer's megahit mystery Gone Girl. According to Deadline, Hendricks will portray Krissi Cates, a stripper with a dark secret with important implications for protagonist Libby Day (Charlize Theron) and her imprisoned brother (Corey Stoll). New Fall Service

On Sunday, September 1, new schedules go into effect on most routes to reflect the increased demand for service in the fall, along with several improvements.

You should obtain a new timetable for all peak period and express routes as well as the following routes: 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 8, 12, 16, 18 through 99, 106, 111, 114, 116, 118, 121, 122, 124, 128, 129, 130, 131, 147, 149, 151, 159, 161, 172, 175, 176, 177, 178 and the O-Train.

Schedules will be adjusted on several routes to improve reliability as follows: 16, 71, 87, 94, 106, 131 and 159.

To meet the growing demand for service, additional trips that are over and above the normal seasonal increases will be added to routes 30, 93 and 111. On the following routes capacity will be increased by using articulated or double-decker buses on busy trips: 1, 4, 5, 7, 8, 22, 30, 34, 35, 40, 67, 68, 69, 70, 73, 76, 87, 93, 94, 96, 98, 101, 111 and 118.

Minor frequency reductions in certain time periods will be made to Routes 85, 86, 97, 112, 126, 129 and 176, but sufficient capacity will be maintained by using articulated buses.

O-Train Returns

The O-Train returns Tuesday, September 3, following a shut down for upgrades in preparation for service expansion in 2014. Temporary bus Route 107 will be cancelled.

Fall Service Highlights

4 will have supplemental service to Carleton University reinstated for the start of fall classes.

38 will have more trips extended along North Service Road, which will improve access to service for residents.

95 will have improved service to Trim Park & Ride and to Barrhaven Centre with the extension of more weekday trips to these stations.

107 will be cancelled after Labour Day, with the return of the O-Train on September 3.

111 will have four eastbound morning trips extended from Merivale and Viewmount to start at Baseline Station, that will improve connections to Carleton University and reduce overcrowding.

Supplemental service to Carleton University will be reinstated for the start of fall classes.

114 will have two new early trips added — one on Sunday from Elmvale to Hurdman, and one on weekdays from Elmvale. Early morning service will also be rerouted southbound on weekdays in order to bring service closer to Ottawa Train Yards and employment centres along Belfast and Industrial. Several trips will travel from St. Laurent Blvd., via Belfast and the roadway in front of Farm Boy, then via Industrial to the regular routing.

121 will be rerouted in both directions to travel via Ottawa Train Yards along the roadway at Farm Boy in order to improve service to the shopping district. Service will be removed from St. Laurent Blvd., the east end of Belfast Road and from Industrial Garage roadway.

As well, buses will be rerouted to travel from Star Top via Algoma and Labrie to Cyrville Road in both directions, which will bring service closer to employment areas and improve access to Transitway service at Cyrville Station.

Eastbound service will be extended to operate until just after 9 p.m. on weekdays in response to customers' needs.

129 will be extended until about 9:30 p.m. on Sundays in response to customers' needs.

Buses will no longer operate to the Canada Aviation and Space Museum on weekends after September 2, with the end of the special summer-weekends-only service. The trip to and from the museum on weekdays will continue.

Supplemental service to La Cité collégiale will be reinstated for the start of fall classes.

130 will be removed from Montmere to operate via Brian Coburn and Trim. Express Route 30 will continue to provide service in peak periods.

151 will be improved to operate every 30 minutes in the morning peak period eastbound from Westboro Station to Tunney's Pasture.

159 will have the last two trips on weekdays removed, as well as two trips Sunday morning due to low ridership.

175, 177, 186 will be rerouted to travel via Longfields Drive instead of Greenbank, to Marketplace Station, which will improve access to service for residents in the western part of Chapman Mills. The morning peak period trips on Route 177 to Fallowfield Station, which travel via Greenbank, will be unchanged.

185 will no longer operate on weekends to the Agriculture Museum and Experimental Farm after September 2, with the end of the special summer-weekends-only service.

School Routes

Special school trips on Routes 120, 130, 135 and 618 in Orléans will be removed from Montmere to travel via Brian Coburn and Trim. School trips are adjusted every year, so confirm your route and schedule before school starts. Your best bet for up-to-date information is at octranspo.com.

Labour Day

On Monday, September 2, a Sunday schedule will operate, so only those routes that normally run on Sunday will be in service. Holiday schedules are available at octranspo.com. OC Transpo Sales Centres and Information Centre will be open to serve you.

The DayPass ($7.95) will be valid as a Family DayPass on August 31, September 1 and 2. A family of up to six people, with a maximum of two age 13 or older, can get unlimited rides for the day. You can buy a DayPass on the bus (exact fare).

Service Information

For the arrival times of your bus 24 hours a day, call 613-560-1000 or text 560560 plus your four-digit bus stop number.

Automated travel planning is available at octranspo.com and octranspo.mobi. Just enter the information about your trip and the system will create your own personalized travel plan. It's fast, it's easy and you get instant results.

Breaking Bad ends with tears for creator

Happy ending?
Vince Gilligan talks about bringing the series to a close

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

With Vince Gilligan's groundbreaking Breaking Bad ending its run after 62 episodes, we talked to the brain behind the series about what fans can expect — without giving away too much.

He scrapped the original ending long ago:
"I'm very impressed with J.K. Rowling for knowing where Harry Potter was going to end. That is impressive," he says. "I had ideas, in early going when I was writing the pilot all by myself, of where it would all end, and I discarded them pretty quickly once I hired my six writers. This last year, in fact, where we knew we had these final 16 episodes, we went through many, many possibilities. In fact, we went through every possibility we could think of because we didn't want to leave any stone unturned. We wanted to think of every possible outcome. That's why it took way longer than I thought it would take."

Writing the finale brought tears to his eyes:
"I cried because it was over. I was in my condo in Albuquerque, writing the very last page of the last episode — I was writing the very last paragraph, in fact — and I started to tear up," he remembers. "It was because I knew that is it. I was never going to get to write that character again. I mean, not on Breaking Bad. It was a hard-fought battle, and it was a result of thousands and thousands of hours of work and emotion, and I teared up because as hard as it was those six years, I knew in that moment I was going to be very sad it was over. And I was and I am sad. But I feel right that it ended when it did, creatively."

There won't be a movie:
"I'd be very surprised. Every show is different, and I think it's wonderful when there's a movie version of a TV show," he says. "But I always felt for this one show, for Breaking Bad, that it would be a bit of an injustice to the show itself, to what we were trying to build all these years, for it to end in a fashion that didn't feel complete and satisfying on the small screen. We're leaving it all on the field with these final eight episodes."

It doesn't have to end poorly for everyone:
"I have to be careful the way I answer these questions, because I don't want to ruin anything for anybody, but I can tell you that the writers and I, we're not out to punish any character," he offers. "There's the old saying that it's very easy to extract emotion from an audience by being mean to a child or beating a puppy with a stick or something. We were not trying to go for those kind of feelings. We looked at these episodes as our last chance to end the story in as satisfying a manner as possible. The best answer I can give is that I'm very satisfied by the ending. That is not to say it's a happy ending, nor a sad ending — nor to give any promise of how one will feel emotionally when it's over. But it is to say that I hope it feels proper. Fitting. It feels fitting to me."

J. Crew

File this one under 'Huh, OK'

J. Crew CEO Mickey Drexler will have a small cameo on this Sunday's episode of Breaking Bad. Look for him as a customer in Walter White's car wash, if that's the sort of thing you would find exciting to look for.

So how did this synergy between the decidedly unglamorous Breaking Bad and preppy mother ship J. Crew come about? Apparently, Drexler had a meeting with some Sony Television producers, and when they learned that he was obsessed with the show, they insisted that he make an appearance.

Banks puts her money where her mouth is

Album. After more than a year and a half of hype, Azealia Banks is ready to go Broke With Expensive Taste

MICHAEL GREGER
Metro World News in Philadelphia

There is a reason behind everything Azealia Banks does, and it's usually centred on unleashing her inner creativity — whether it's yelling the C-word while wearing a Mickey Mouse sweater or strutting around stage in a motocross suit.

"I do my thing. I do whatever I feel like doing," Banks says. "People tried to define me and I tried to define myself, and I came up with all these explanations of what I do, but there is no explanation for what I do."

Even calling Banks a female rapper is a stretch.

She refuses to be lumped into that whole scene.

"A lot of female rappers coming out are post-hip- hop, or post-Nicki Minaj, or post-Young Money," she says. "I feel like I really transcended that whole kitschy, female rap scene."

It's hard to believe that Banks is only 22 years old. She comes across as mature beyond her years, sounding like a hip-hop psychologist in interviews.

"People like me notice all the social trends, not to say that I don't like them, but I'm looking a little deeper," Banks says. "I grew up on the Internet. ... It would be nice to see pop culture do three things at once, instead of one general trend. It's a lot of the sameness. ... It's like I've been eating the same thing for dinner for 10 years in a row."

For those who want something else, there is Banks' Broke With Expensive Taste, her highly anticipated debut album, which she says took her five years to create. The way she sees it, this is the way that she'd like to introduce herself.

"This is my actual arrival. All the other stuff was just me trying to figure out what I was," she says. "I've been working on it since I was 17. 1991 and Van Vogue, those were songs I was saving for my album, but because there was such a demand for me, I had to put them out early."

Lose the labels

"I feel like I really transcended that whole kitschy, female rap scene."

Azealia Banks

The album is set to drop this fall, either October or November, according to Banks. She confirms it has its roots in rap, but listen for her growth and maturity as an artist — there are distinct jazz and punk rock influences bouncing around.

"When I first came out, I wasn't trying to see how I fit into that paradigm of success of the music business," Banks says. "I took on a lot of personas that weren't me. I tried to behave in a way, got carried away with the idea of being a female rapper, but I'm so much more than that. ... I think the music on this album is the most sophisticated I've ever created."

Azealia Banks refuses to be defined. CONTRIBUTED

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz ALL IMAGES GETTY

Diaz and Segel keep us all guessing in the Hamptons

While Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel did enjoy a dinner together in the Hamptons this week, apparently Life & Style magazine's claim that it was a date was a bit off-base. "Jason and Cameron were not romantic at all towards each other; very casual and friendly," a source tells E! News, adding that they were joined at upscale restaurant Nick & Toni's by another gentleman. The friends and Bad Teacher co-stars were also spotted shopping for groceries together earlier that day.

Jane Lynch is clearly not looking forward to filming the Cory Monteith tribute episode of Glee, which goes into production next week. "It's going to be awful," Lynch tells E! News, adding that she hasn't seen the script yet. "It's going to be terrible. It has to be done but it's going to be awful." The production has had a grief counsellor on set to help the cast cope since filming episodes for the new season began.

Brandy's ego bruised as she plays to empty stadium

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Poor Brandy.
The singer performed to an empty, 90,000-capacity stadium last weekend in Johannesburg, South Africa, as part of the Mandela Sports & Culture Day. Due to poor publicity, the crowd left after the football and rugby matches, not realizing — or maybe they did? — that Brandy was set to perform. Per the tweet of @Kabomo, a South African musician, "Brandy performed to an empty stadium. With the stadium lights on. She sulked after two songs and walked off." Which, you know, is more than I would have done. I would have looked out and hightailed it to a bar where I would then sit for the next 30 years of my life and think about how it all went wrong.

Lawsuit against Kanye in pipeline after he allegedly punched paparazzo

Kanye West is facing a lawsuit from a paparazzo over allegedly attacking him outside Los Angeles International Airport, according to TMZ. Plaintiff Daniel Ramos claims that "without warning or provocation," West "suddenly attacked, punching (the plaintiff) and attempting to wrestle the camera from" Ramos' hands, according to the filing. Ramos' attorney, Gloria Allred, claims that Ramos fell to his knees on the ground "with enough force that he sustained injuries to his right hip, as well as accompanying pain and emotional distress." He is seeking unspecified damages.

Hot dogs must hate hamburgers. Though they're the yin and yang of the home barbecue scene, take a step off your deck and gourmet burgers are selling for a premium at fancy boutique restos while dogs are relegated to the kids menu.

Not that hot dogs can't hold their own when it comes to haute cuisine. In my mind, the whole concept of a meal in an elongated bun was designed for getting creative with elaborate toppings (and I'm not just talking mustard, relish and ketchup).

Finding a wine that will stand strong against a barrage of eclectic flavours piled on top of a well-cooked wiener is a challenge worthy of The Amazing Race.

I like the versatility of the moscato grape. Originating in Italy, it's synonymous with a slightly sweet style of white wine that's become the darling of winemakers the world over.

Australians love it, and Jacob's Creek 2012 Moscato ($9.95 to $13.49) offers a lightly tropical mix of melon and pineapple that's a perfect foil for anything that will add a spicy, sharp, salty or sweet layer across your designer dog. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Steve Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team, says players won't hit the ice at the orientation camp "because of the high cost of insurance." THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Insuring players against injury keeps camp off ice

High price tag. Potential Team Canada players will settle for information sessions and bonding activities

Steve Yzerman would prefer to get Canada's players on the ice at the upcoming orientation camp for the Olympic men's hockey team.

But the price tag to insure players against injury is too high for Hockey Canada, so the four-day camp starting Sunday in Calgary will consist of informational meetings about the Games in Sochi, Russia, and fostering team chemistry off the ice.

"Not going on the ice isn't the end of the world," says Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team. "There's lot of other things that need to be done in preparation, logistically going through how we're going to get there, where we'll stay, where family and friends may stay, a walk-through of the venues, drug-testing policy, a lot of informational things we need to go through and get out of the way. This is a good time to do it."

Forty-seven players — five goaltenders, 17 defencemen and 25 forwards — are scheduled to arrive in Calgary on Sunday and head to Hockey Canada's headquarters at Canada Olympic Park. Canada can take three goaltenders and 22 skaters to Sochi.

Among the summer-camp invitees are 15 players who won Olympic gold in Vancouver in 2010, including Sidney Crosby. The Pittsburgh star's overtime goal lifted Canada to a 3-2 win over the U.S. in the final.

The Saddledome is undergoing restoration from severe flooding in June, but that's not keeping the players off the ice next week, says Yzerman.

"It's strictly insurance," he explains. "It's because of the high cost of insurance Hockey Canada is obligated to place on the players we're not going to skate."

It's up to each country's federation to insure NHL players against injury at summer camps. Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson has said that would cost more than $1 million. THE CANADIAN PRESS

3 — Head coach Mike Babcock and forwards Patrice Bergeron, Eric Staal and Jonathan Toews are members of the "Triple Gold Club," each having won Olympic gold, a world title and a Stanley Cup.

Grand jury. Hernandez indicted on murder charge

A Massachusetts grand jury has indicted former New England Patriot Aaron Hernandez on a first-degree murder charge in the death of a man whose bullet-riddled body was found in an industrial park near his home.

The grand jury returned the indictment Thursday. It charges Hernandez with the killing of 27-year-old Odin Lloyd, a semi-professional football player who was dating the sister of Hernandez's girlfriend.

MLB. Yankees continue dominance over Blue Jays

Andy Pettitte pitched six effective innings, Curtis Granderson homered, and the New York Yankees beat Toronto 5-3 on Thursday after a 3 1/2-hour rain delay for their 10th straight victory against the Blue Jays.

Eduardo Nunez hit a two-run single, and the surging Yankees won their fifth consecutive game and 10th in 12 overall. New York improved to 12-1 against Toronto this season with its second four-game sweep of the Blue Jays, and moved within 3 1/2 games of the second AL wild-card spot.

The Yankees have won 13 home games in a row against Toronto, their longest streak against one team since a 14-game run against Kansas City from August 2002 to April 2006. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
A colleague may be a bit pushy today and your first instinct will be to push back. Don't. It will be counter-productive, not least because they have more power than you. Stay calm and fit in with their needs.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Are you working too hard? According to the planets you are and the best thing you can do today is take an hour off from your schedule to review what you are trying to achieve.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
This should be a wonderful time for you and if it isn't, it soon will be. A few days from now, your world will be turned on its head and you'll be standing the right way up!

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Family issues will take up a lot of your time today and the sooner you deal with them, the sooner you will be free to do your own thing. Loved ones won't be as difficult to talk to as you appear to believe.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You need to get out more. Short trips will be especially beneficial today and over the weekend. You may encounter one or two less than friendly people but you will meet many more who delight you.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Mercury, your ruler, joins the Sun in your sign today, making this potentially one of the best long weekends of the year. Personally and professionally you'll soon be moving ahead.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The thing you fear most is the thing you should be doing the most. That may not be what you want to hear but there it is. Once you take that first step, the rest will come easy.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You sometimes expect too much of yourself and then feel depressed when your efforts fall short. If so you feel that now, lower your expectations and learn to live with who you are.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
If you get the chance to join forces with like-minded people today, take it. Yes, you may have to give up some freedom but in return you'll get the opportunity to change the world.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
With Mercury, planet of the mind, joining the Sun in one of the best areas of your chart, you have a clear idea what it is you want to accomplish — and the personal and professional tools to make it happen.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The planets urge you to think the unthinkable today. But keep in mind that thinking and doing do not always go together at the same time. The more you think now, the more success you will enjoy later.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You like to see the best in people but the planets warn that today you should operate on the assumption that no one is on your side. It may not be true but you cannot afford to take chances. SALLY BROMPTON
